

Mainz Arrested on Clubbing Charge

Albuquerque Police Officer Called to Account by Arizona Men Who Say He Assaulted Them Last October

Officer Charles Mainz of the Albuquerque police force was arrested today on warrant sworn out before Justice of the Peace J. M. McClellan charging him with assault. The warrant was based on two complaints, sworn out by H. E. Chapman and A. A. Sheldon, who alleged that on the night of October 26, 1913, Mainz beat them without cause of provocation.

Sheldon and Chapman say they came here from Arizona to buy permanent supplies of various sorts. Mainz, they allege, encountered them on the street and started to question them. They begged civilly, they aver, and say that the policemen insisted and assaulted them for no reason whatsoever. Justice McClellan released Mainz on his own recognizance to appear for a hearing tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

GUESTS FORCED TO MAKE HURRIED GETAWAY

Big Fire in Milwaukee Plant of Western Newspaper Union Causes Heavy Property Loss

(By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.)

Milwaukee, Wis., March 19.—The owners of the Windsor hotel numbered among the most prominent people here for their lives early today when a fire which broke out in the plant of the Western Newspaper Union, in the south portion of the building gutted the four-story structure, and caused damage to adjoining property.

Charles Sandberg, lessee of the hotel, declares that every guest got out safely. The property damage is $200,000.

The job department of the Evening Wisconsin, one of Milwaukee's oldest newspapers, was considerably damaged by smoke and water, and the basement containing the news paper press was flooded with several feet of water.

A fire wall separating the upper floors of the Evening Wisconsin building from the hotel structure saved the newspaper plant.

The Western Newspaper Union's loss is $10,000 and that on the hotel building $40,000.

Definite announcement was made today that every guest at the Windsor hotel escaped without injury.

Humphrey Denies Prosperity.

Washington, March 19.—Secretary Redfield's recent report on the prosperity of the mining mills of the nation was attacked in the house today by Representative Humphrey, Republican, of Washington, who declared it was based on nonexistent evidence obtained by partisan investigators, "with a view to supporting the preconceived notions of their chief."

Mr. Humphrey recently charged that the mills had been injured by the new tariff. Secretary Redfield's report was a refutation of that.

LENZ INTIMATES DECISION MAY BE LONG DELAYED

Governor of Mooseheart Says Order was Two Years in Determining Location of Institution He Heads

As a net result of the visit here of Congressman John L. Lentz, governor of Mooseheart, the question of $2,000,000 Mooseheadland is generally regarded as just about where it was while the site committee was on its tour of inspection. Albuquerque is one of the places being considered.

At Lentz spoke at a largely attended public meeting in Masonic temple last night under the auspices of Albuquerque Lodge. L. D. M. James J. Davis, director general of the order, said to be the most influential Mason in the United States who was expected to come to the city with him, was unable to leave Los Angeles as planned, on account of lodge business that came up on the eve of the trip. Mr. Davis may come later but nothing positive is known as to that.

Mr. Lentz said after the meeting at Masonic Temple that the location of site for the institution was still so uncertain that it might be a year before selection was announced. He hoped the selection would be decided within a few months, but pointed out that it took the supreme officers two years to fix upon a site for Mooseheadland.

IMMIGRATION BILL HAS LITERACY TEST

(By Leased Wire to Evening Herald.)

Washington, March 19.—The Senate immigration bill was reported favorably to the senate today. It contains the literacy test. Some of the senators say President Wilson may veto it on that account.

FRENCHMEN TAKE STEPS TO CHECK DRINK EVIL IN PARIS

One Drinking Place Now for Every Eighty Men in the Nation. Number Growing Rapidly.

Paris, March 19.—A bill to stop the opening of any more drinking establishments in France is to be presented to parliament as the opening wedge for the anti-alcoholic campaign which is being taken up anew by temperance advocates.

Here are some of the facts with which they are trying to drive home the need of restraint:

If the drinking places already established were so apportioned there would be one for every group of 80 inhabitants of France.

In some districts drinking places are so thickly placed that there is one for every seventeen persons.

New drinking places are springing up throughout the country at the rate of six a day.

More alcoholic drink, including wines, is consumed in France than in any other nation in the world.

In the form of spirits alone it is estimated that $236,000,000 worth was drunk in France during 1911.

"Complete prohibition is beyond the wildest dreams of any French temperance reformer," says Henri Schmidt, who is author of the bill about to come before the house of deputies, "and the most we can hope at present is to forbid the opening of any new saloons. By refusing to grant new leases we hope in the course of time, as some of the present drinking establishments fail or cease to exist for other reasons, to reduce the average of drinking places to one for 200 inhabitants. We shall not, however, try to prevent the opening of restaurants where drink is sold with meals."

But even such a mild anti-alcoholic measure as this is likely to meet with much opposition in parliament. How difficult it is to pass temperance legislation in France may be judged from the fact that in 1912 only 126 out of 600 deputies voted in favor of a milder bill which originated in the senate and was twelve years passing through the upper house.

We hope, however, that the general elections this spring will considerably increase the temperature vote in the chamber and we are organizing an energetic non-party campaign throughout France, urging each political group to obtain from their candidate a declaration on the drinking question and if possible a pledge to support anti-alcoholic legislation.

After the passage of the law at present before the house there are two other projects which we hope to realize in course of time. One is the absolute prohibition of the sale of absinthe. Official statistics show that the consumption of this liquor, which stood at 700,000 litres in 1878, had increased to 25,000,000 litres in 1910.

The increase of crime in France during recent years is largely due to absinthe drinking. Our mad-houses are filled with lunatics who would have been sane and healthy men and women but for absinthe.

The second anti-alcoholic measure will be for abolishing the privilege of spirit distillers to manufacture a quantity of spirit free from taxation for consumption by themselves and their families. The amount of spirits thus manufactured is enormous, especially in the cider districts, such as Normandy and Brittany, where every peasant is a distiller of spirits in a small way. The government has no check whatever on spirit manufacturers under the "privilege," and of course it is not by any means consumed by the distiller and his family. It is estimated that if the spirits manufactured under the privilege were taxed at the same rate as other alcohol it would bring a revenue of at least $22,000,000.

"We propose no legislation at present against the drinking of wine. In districts where nothing but wine is consumed there is very little alcoholism. Unfortunately inhabitants of the famous wine growing districts of France are no longer content to drink wine alone. They have acquired the taste for more pernicious drinks and at the same time more absinthe is being drunk each year in the Midi than in any other part of France."

Since Leon Bronislawski, general secretary of the French Union for Woman's Suffrage, and a prominent temperance reformer, says: "Anti-alcoholism is one of the chief planks in our platform and I believe the granting of votes for women will be the only means of securing a temporary majority in the French parliament."

Newness—that was the keynote of the annual spring opening at the Economist store today. Everybody knows that the store is new, but it remained for today to present the notably attractive newness of the stock and equipment.

The millinery department on the second floor is, of course, the Mecca for the host of Albuquerque women out to get their first glimpse of the really authoritative spring styles in headwear. This department covers more than a third of the second floor and the number and variety of styles of hats shown were a source of very evident delight. The ready-to-wear department also on the second floor likewise came in for a lot of attention because of the presentation there of garments which would do credit to the most exclusive of eastern stores.
